

Balochi Orthographic System: Background, issues and solutions

Hamid Ali Baloch

Formation of an Orthography is a major task to articulate it in a language. Most of the world languages are confronting the orthographic issues in different countries.

Balochi is one of the major languages in Pakistan, but it still awaits a standard orthography. The attempts of different academies and Balochi orthographic experts are admirable from the last seventy years, but because of a vast geography of the Baloch people in different neighboring countries, the Baloch people could not become successful to formulate a standard orthography.

This paper focuses the different orthographic efforts of linguists, literary men and academies from the last seventy years and its outcomes in the modern Balochi literature.
